

LOBBYISTS CONSPIRE TO KILL TARIFF LAW

CHARGES PRESIDENT WILSON IN A STATEMENT ISSUED TO-DAY IN REGARD TO SITUATION.

IS NOT APPREHENSIVE

Opposition Concentrated Against Free
Sugar and Free Wool Will Be Unsuccessful, Is Predicted.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 26.—President Wilson today told correspondents that he believed the most extraordinary lobby ever gathered by special interests to overcome legislation was now mustered at the capitol against the tariff bill. The president said he had no doubt that the lobby would be defeated, but that the great majority were occupied in a systematic misrepresentation of facts. While the president believes that the lobby will be defeated, he is not apprehensive that it will be successful. The president made it clear that he believed the tariff bill would be passed, and that the lobby would be unsuccessful. The president's statement was issued in response to a question from a reporter as to whether he was apprehensive of the lobby's success.

The president later issued the following statement:

"I think that the public ought to know the extraordinary assertions being made by the lobby in Washington to gain recognition for certain alterations of the tariff bill. Washington has seldom seen so numerous, so persistent and so audacious a lobby. The newspapers are being filled with paid advertisements calculating to mislead the judgment of not only public men, but also the public opinion of the country itself. There is every evidence that money without limit is being spent to sustain this lobby and to create an appearance of a pressure of public opinion antagonistic to some of the chief items of the tariff bill."

Public is Voiceless.

"It is a serious interest to the country that the people at large should have no lobby, and no voice in these matters, while great bodies of astute men seek to create an artificial opinion and to overcome the interests of the public for their private profits. It is thoroughly regrettable that the people of this country to take knowledge of this matter. Only public opinion can check and destroy it."

The government in all its branches ought to be relieved from this intolerable burden, and this constant interruption to the calm progress of debate. I know that in this I am speaking for the members of the two houses who would reject an amendment I would be released from this undesirable situation."

Senator Kern's resolution for an inquiry into conditions in the coal mines of West Virginia was ready to be reported today when the senate committee on education and labor met. Senator Kern and others are confident it would pass.

Many Beck Hearings.

David P. Kingsley, president of the New York life insurance company, appeared today before the senate finance subcommittee working on the income tax section of the Underwood bill to discuss a provision relating to insurance companies.

Other subcommittees had a long list of manufacturers waiting to be heard before the close of the tariff hearings tomorrow night. Beginning Wednesday morning the subcommittee will take up the schedule for revision and plan their reports to the full committee. That task it is estimated will take at least a week.

Many Beck Hearings.

When your company paid $250,000 to a campaign fund," said Senator Williams. "None of that money was ever participated in by the policy holders."

"No it was not," said Kingsley. "That proves that your company's assertion that policy holders participated in all the earnings of the company was false, wasn't it?"

"That is what your company returned," said Senator Williams. "That the judgment of this company's officers who paid this campaign contribution thinking it was necessary to protect the assets of the company was bad."

"It proved more than that," asserted Senator Williams. "I was a policy holder and a democrat and you took part of my money and gave it away to protect against your own company, but has all of that been done for the benefit of the insurance business?"

"Absolutely," replied President Kingsley.

NAMED TO TAKE CHARGE OF TURKISH REFORMS

BOOSTERS' CLUB HAS SEVERAL PROSPECTS FOR NEW FACTORIES

Temporary Officers of Organization
Have Been Elected—Three Considering
Janesville.

With the enthusiasm instilled by the several mass meetings and the confidence expressed in them by the election as temporary officers of the club, the organization has been directed to have gone to work with a vim and have already three excellent prospects of securing good paying factories for Janesville within the immediate future.

In fact, a committee composed of H. H. Bliss, H. W. McNamara and Joseph Denning went to a neighboring city last week Monday and inspected a plant there that is seeking to move from its present location because of labor troubles, that employs over a hundred hands and will increase materially within a short time. Their report was satisfactory and the owners of the concern expect to visit Janesville this week to look over a location.

A second committee visited a second concern last Friday in a large city and found that it was in a most flourishing condition, owned its own building but had labor troubles, owing to the fact it was located in the center of a large retail district. They desired to move and so strongly was Janesville urged upon them that the owners is today the guest of the officers of the Twenty-Five Thousand Club inspecting a site for the proposed factory.

The committee inspected the books of the concern and its workings and was composed of A. E. Bingham, H. L. McNamara and Fred Green. Their report was most encouraging and they expect to visit Janesville this week to look over a location. The directors have also taken up several other projects which are in the hands of Mr. Wheeler of Beloit, for locations and will investigate them at a later date. This is an excellent start for the new club and shows clearly the spirit that prompted its creation. Reports of the steps taken by the present temporary directors will be made at the first annual meeting under the articles of incorporation next Monday night.

MOTOR FIRE TRUCK HAS REAL SERVICE

Responded to Two Alarms in First Ward Yesterday Afternoon—
Auto on Fire—Outbuilding Burns.

Two actual service runs were made by the new Seagrave motor fire truck yesterday afternoon, both in response to alarms from the first ward. The first alarm was received about two o'clock from the corner of Ravine and Jackson streets, where the automobile of Frank Granger had caught fire. A Pony chemical service truck extinguished the fire, but the engine, it is believed, will not exceed $25.

The second alarm came from box 19, corner of Jackson and West Bluff streets about ten minutes past five. An outbreak had been developed by a carelessly thrown match or cigar stub, but the fire was extinguished before it made much headway. The new fifty-gallon chemical tank on the auto truck was used for the first time and worked satisfactorily. As a line of fire hose had been laid it was decided to turn on the water and extinguish the fire by this means so as to save time.

The auto truck started promptly each time and made good speed. The company's demonstrator today installed a new carburetor and radiator. Those which were in the machine when it arrived had developed small leaks, defects which would not likely show in the factory tests. The company intends to sell the city a machine that is faultless in every respect.

APPOINTS MISS HEMINGWAY
AS REGISTER IN PROBATE

Judge. Name. Former Deputy
County Superintendent to Succeed
Ray W. Clarke.

Miss Edna Hemingway, former deputy county superintendent of schools, has been appointed by Judge J. W. Sale of the county court as register in probate to succeed Ray W. Clarke, who has accepted a position with a Madison law firm. Miss Hemingway began her duties in the court office today and will take entire charge the first of next month. Miss Hemingway will not take the court reporting but an expert stenographer will be called in when an occasion arises.

BEGINS HER WORK TODAY
IN ANTISEL'S OFFICE

Miss Sadie Clapp Takes Position as Deputy County Superintendent

Miss Sadie Clapp, who was recently appointed as deputy by County Superintendent C. D. Antsel, began her work in his office today. Miss Clapp has been teacher in the rural schools of the county for several years and has been uniformly successful in the work. Miss Clapp and Superintendent Antsel are engaged in present work correcting the diploma examination papers and listing the names of the students who wrote on the questions Friday and Saturday of last week. Three hundred, sixty-nine pupils took the examinations at various places in the county.

RURAL SCHOOL INSPECTOR
SPENDS DAY IN CITY

W. E. Larson of Madison Visits Training School and County Superintendent's Office.

State rural school inspector, W. E. Larson of Madison, was in this city today to visit the Rock county teacher training school. He also called at the office of Superintendent Antsel and talked of arrangements for the annual school board convention which will be held at the high school building in this city on July 10th. It is expected that many of the rural teachers as possible present for the meeting which will be attended by the members of the district school boards throughout the county.

JANESVILLE'S CLAIM TO BE PRESENTED IN A MOST ABLE MANNER

Delegation From This City Will Appear Before Legislative Fair Committee.

Plans are being perfected for the presentation of Janesville's claims to the location of the state fair site before the legislative committee having this in charge at Madison at ten o'clock on Thursday next. Mayor Fathers, C. S. Putnam, M. G. Jeffris, Thos. S. Nolan, Frank P. Croak and M. P. Richardson of the original committee will be the nucleus of the legislative committee. Doubtless many other citizens will also be present to lend their influence by personal work among the legislature itself.

Mayor Fathers said today: "We are arranging a schedule of speakers so as to include all phases of the question under discussion. There will be seven or eight speakers on the program and each will know just the part to take up. I have also telephoned gentlemen in Edgerton, Fort Atkinson, Beloit and Evansville, who stated that they would be glad to assist in bringing the fair to Janesville. In Madison and add their influence to ours to impress the legislative committee with the advantages of our site."

It will be impossible to extend a personal invitation to everyone who would go to Madison on Thursday, but I wish it to be announced that it would be most agreeable to a goodly number of citizens could find time to make the trip and add their influence with ours. The bigger the delegation the better impression we will make on the legislature. Everyone interested in bringing the fair to Janesville is urged to go to Madison if possible. The committee will go up on the St. Paul train which leaves shortly before eight as the hearing is scheduled for ten."

EVANSVILLE ACTION IN JUSTICE COURT

Case of George W. Keylock Versus
Burr Tolles Is Tried Before
Justice Charles Lang
Today.

Trial of the case of George W. Keylock, plaintiff, of the town of Union, versus Burr Tolles of Evansville, defendant, an action growing out of Tolles killing a horse belonging to Mr. Keylock on April 23, was begun before Justice Charles Lang in this city today. Because of the great number of witnesses to be heard the trial was held in the municipal court room. Attorney Thomas S. Nolan appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Louis Avery & Oestreich, is counsel for the defendant.

The plaintiff complains of the defendant and his cause of action alleges that on April 23, he came upon his premises in the town of Union and without warrant or reason shot and killed a horse belonging to the plaintiff and worth $150. The matter demands judgment for that amount and the cost and disbursements of the action.

The defendant denies each and every allegation except in the statement of residence of the plaintiff and defendant. In answer and as a defense the defendant alleges that on May 17, 1911, he was duly appointed an agent of the Wisconsin Humane Society, and that on April 23, 1911, he was present and in the performance of his duties he killed a horse upon the plaintiff's premises, the horse being hopelessly injured or diseased, or both, so as to be a public nuisance.

The attorney for the defendant will endeavor to prove that the killing was fully warranted under the facts and circumstances and the law of the state. He asks that the action be dismissed and that the defendant recover his costs and disbursements.

The court room was entirely filled with witnesses and others interested in the case. The trial began this morning and it is probable that no decision will be reached until late this afternoon. The trial is before a jury.

HAVE NIGHT OFFICER AT POLICE STATION

Innovation in Service Begun Saturday Night—Record to be Kept of Calls—Kemp Special Officer.

Twenty-four hour service at the police station was inaugurated Saturday night—Record to be kept of calls—Kemp Special Officer.

The new innovation to be made by the new chief, Ensign H. Ransom, and will be followed by others, one of which will be the keeping of a record of all police calls, the places from which they are received, nature of complaints, officers responding to them, and particulars of arrests. Plans will be printed to facilitate the keeping of the records.

Applicants for places on the police force are numerous and it is probable that a number will write the necessary civil service examinations so as to become eligible for appointment to vacant positions. No appointments can be made by the Fire and Police Commission until such examinations are held. The commission has not yet acted on the resignation of Patrolman John Brown and Simon Dorn and Platoon Allen J. Pierce. Secretary of the Commission, Arthur Jones, stated this afternoon that these matters will be taken up at a meeting to be held in a day or two.

Phil Kemp, formerly turnkey at the county jail, has been appointed a special policeman and will work tonight.

Special Permit: Henry Tenbert and Lillian Garske, both of the town of Rock, secured a marriage license and special permit at the court house today and were married this afternoon by the Rev. E. O. Hoffmeister.

Motion for New Trial: A motion for a new trial in the case of Charters against the St. Paul Railroad company, which was tried at the February term of the circuit court, was argued before Judge Grimm in the circuit court this afternoon.

MEMBERS OF ARSON TRUST FACE TRIAL AT FT. WAYNE TODAY

Three Men Suspected of Working With Gang Throughout West
Are Charged With Arson.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 26.—Another chapter in the so-called arson trust in the central west was started here today when David and Benjamin Rosenberg and Benjamin Franklin were placed on trial before Judge Edgeman in the circuit court charged with arson.

The men are alleged to have had their clothing stores here set on fire that they might collect illegal insurance money on their stock. The three were indicted by the Allen county grand jury and the Rosenbergs have been in jail several months awaiting trial. Franklin has been out on bonds.

Charles A. Dolph, James Welsh and Daniel Sanderson, all of South Bend, are expected to testify regarding a conversation they heard between David Rosenberg and Franklin in that city the former home of the three accused.

The two are alleged to have been quarreling and Franklin said, "Well, you have no kick coming. Didn't I lose the insurance money with you?"

Franklin is said by the officials to have confessed at one time and then to have repudiated it. Ben Fink the confessed "torch" in the trial is said to have admitted that he set fire to the Fort Wayne store owned by the Rosenbergs and Franklin and that Franklin paid him for the job. He is to be one of the state's witnesses here.

The trial, it is expected, will continue at least four weeks.

FEAR BOSTON WOMAN LOST LIFE ON SHIP

Fear That American Was on Board
Liner Nevada Which Sunk
In Smyrna Harbor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, May 26.—Relatives here of Miss Juliet B. Higginson, of Boston, fear that she may have been one of the passengers on board the steamer Nevada which sank on Saturday after striking three mines in the Gulf of Smyrna and carrying forty persons down with her. Miss Juliet Higginson had been visiting Smyrna and is about due to leave that city; inquiries are being made by cable as to her fate. She is believed to be in the city today. Her American consul at Smyrna went today to the scene of the wreck to organize relief.

SEDITION EVIDENCE SECURED IN FRANCE

Government Takes Energetic Action Against Anti-Military Agitators.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, May 26.—Energetic action was taken by the French government against the anti-military campaign in France today. More than eighty offices of the General Federation of Labor Exchange in Paris and provincial cities were occupied by the police. All the documents found in the bureaux were seized by order of the government which intends to prosecute on charges of sedition the organizers of recent demonstrations among the soldiers against the newly introduced three years of service in the active army.

The arrangements of the police were carefully made and the seizures were carried out simultaneously everywhere. It is estimated that much incriminating material was found.

BREAK SHOW WINDOW TO STEAL DIAMONDS

$5,000 Worth of Jewels Taken From South State Street Shop in Chicago—One Arrest Is Made.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, May 26.—Tearing off an iron screen protecting a show window in the jewelry store of Lobell and Company, 101 South State street, a thief today shattered the pane and escaped with a number of diamond rings valued at $5,000. Later the police arrested a 46-year-old man, who could not explain why he had the hand, but denied knowledge of the theft.

TWO ARE CREMATED IN CHICAGO FIRE

Woman and Adopted Daughter Perish
In Flames Despite Policeman's
Heroic Efforts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, May 26.—Two persons were burned to death and four others injured today in a fire which partly destroyed a two-story building at 401 1/2th Court.

The dead are Mrs. Martha Lieberman, 57, and her adopted daughter, Lillian, two years old. Their bodies were charred by the flames.

Alfred Lieberman, husband of the woman and their son, Harry, were badly burned. Fire Captain Thomas Dooley and Edward Walsh, a pipeman, were cut about the face and arms by glass.

The Lieberman family occupied the second floor of the building. The fire is supposed to have started in a grocery on the second floor. When it reached the upper floor all the Liebermans were asleep. Father and son sleeping in a back room were aroused by policemen before the flames reached them. Rushing to the front room the men attempted to rescue the woman and child but had overtaken them in bed. The policemen carried out the bodies after the father and son had been severely burned trying to beat out the flames which enveloped the lifeless forms. An artery in the back of the father's arm was severed by falling glass and he became unconscious from loss of blood.

MRS. PANKHURST IS RE-ARRESTED TODAY

British Suffragette Leader Is Taken
By Police and Will Be Required
To Serve Remainder of Term.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, May 26.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette leader, who was released from Holloway jail on license on April 12, owing to the serious condition of her health arising from her "hunger strike" was re-arrested today when she was leaving the house where she has been staying.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 26.—Two militant suffragettes attempted early today to damage the golf links here and so interfere with the opening of play for the amateur golf championship of the world. The women were intercepted near the seventeenth green by the night guards who had been on duty in considerable force for over a week owing to the threats of militant leaders. One of the women escaped, but the other was caught. She was liberated after being searched and was not handed over to the police.

The weather was perfect for the opening of today's match. The sun shone brightly and a mild breeze was blowing in from the sea, drying the course and favorably affecting the players, especially the American representatives. Douglas Grant of San Francisco who had entered as a member of the Richmond Golf Club in England scratched at the last moment. Harold Webber of Toledo, C. W. Insley of the Oneida Community Club of New York, W. Heinrich Schmidt of Worcester, Massachusetts, Campbell D. White of San Francisco, and Finley S. Douglas of the Nassau Country Club, Long Island.

The trial, it is expected, will continue at least four weeks.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS IN M'CARTHY CASE

Orders Issued That All Connected
With Saturday's Boxing
Match Be Held.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Calgary, Alta., May 26.—The Canadian mounted police are searching the country for all persons who were connected in any way with the promoter of the McCarthy-Pelkey fight.

Warrants were issued early today for the arrest of Tommie Burns, who staged last Saturday's prize fight in which Luther McCarthy, world's white champion, was slain. McCarthy met his death; William McCahey, McCarthy's manager, referee Eddie Smith and several trainers and attendants connected with the fight.

This development followed an order from the attorney general at Edmonton, Alta., that all principles in the arrangement for Saturday's fight be arrested and the northwest mounted police were instructed to execute the order immediately. It is understood that they will be charged with complicity in manslaughter. Arthur Pelkey, McCarthy's opponent in the latter's fatal ring appearance, who was arrested shortly after the exchange of blows, is charged with the manslaughter. A preliminary hearing in the police court at eleven o'clock this morning, but on account of the decision last evening of the physician who conducted the autopsy, that McCarthy's death resulted from dislocation of the neck and not heart failure as had first been announced, it is anticipated that the hearing will be adjourned awaiting the result of the coroner's inquest which will be held at four o'clock this afternoon.

Dr. Mosher, who conducted the autopsy, will lay his findings before

SELECTION OF THE JURY

Takes Up Time This Afternoon When
Libel Suit Against Lapham
Editor Is Called for Trial.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marquette, Mich., May 26.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by a retinue of friends, witnesses and newspaper men, arrived here this morning. His suit for $10,000 damages charging libel against George A. Newett, publisher of the Lapham Iron Ore, was scheduled to begin at two o'clock this afternoon, with the selection of a jury.

A Distinguished Party.

Three straw hats, enlivened the scene when Col. Roosevelt and his party stepped from the train. A touch of winter still lingered here and the appearance of the straw hats brought a round of applause.

Accompanying Col. Roosevelt were Robert Bacon, former assistant secretary of state, Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy, Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield, Regis H. Post, former governor of Porto Rico, Dr. Alexander Lambert, Jacob A. Riis, Dr. Rixey, former surgeon general of the navy, Lawrence Abbott, Dr. Emile Roosevelt, and his son, Philip, William Loeb, Jr., Glen Gardner, E. C. Curtis, O. Davis, Frank Tyree, John Callan O'Loughlin, and James Sloan. All of these are to be witnesses. Sloan and Tyree as secret service men accompanied Col. Roosevelt on many of his campaign tours.

Brief Morning Session.

The forenoon proceedings in court occupied less than a minute. "Roosevelt versus Newett" read the clerk of the court from the calendar. "The plaintiff in ready" said Attorney W. H. Hill. "The defense is ready," repeated Attorney W. P. Belden. Judge Flannigan then announced that the case would begin at two o'clock in the afternoon. Meanwhile Col. Roosevelt with a retinue of witnesses, including many newspaper men, arrived at the hotel. The case of Roosevelt versus Newett in which the colonel is asking $10,000 for the publication by Newett last October of an editorial charging Col. Roosevelt with drunkenness. The general venire of thirty-six men came into court immediately and the work of selecting a jury began.

Before the case was called the court room was half-filled with spectators including many newspaper men seated in the balconies. The corridors outside were thronged with others anxious to be the first when the doors were opened to the general public. Indeed, Flannigan announced that none would be admitted after the regular seats had filled.

Col. Roosevelt, who arrived here early in the day accompanied by four members of his cabinet and a number of witnesses, came to the court house shortly before the case was called. He drove up in an automobile and walking between two secret service men entered the court room. He took a chair beside William H. Van Deuschen of New York, one of his lawyers. He listened attentively while the names of the venire men were called by Clark Jenks.

The defendant sat at a table with his lawyers to the right of and somewhat in front of the plaintiff. Neither appeared to be particularly interested in the case. Oberlin College has a crack all-around athlete named C. L. Harvey, who is expected to get into the next Olympic games. Harvey is claimed might make good in the pentathlon event, won last year by Jim Thorpe.

Stealing twenty-one bases in twenty-five games is showing considerable speed even for Clyde Milan of the Washingtons, who has made such a record this year. Milan leads the major base purloiners by a big distance.

A new world's record for team trap shooting was made last week at Montgomery, Ala. A team consisting of F. G. Bills, W. R. Crosby, Fred Gilbert, b. R. Graham and W. H. Heer, broke 43 out of a possible 500 targets. Graham was a member of the American team that won the Olympic championships at the traps in Stockholm.

Temperamental Tillie Shafer, who receives mash notes from the ladies, is back in the game with the Giants. When McGraw expressed himself as satisfied with his resignation, Shafer reconsidered a jump to the coast.

Hobbs Ferris, who was a member of the famous Boston Americans than won a world's championship with Jimmy Collins, has been released by the Minneapolis club. Freddie Parent, a side-kick of Ferris in those good old days, is playing star ball for Baltimore in the International league.

Cobb and Crawford of Detroit are admittedly hard hitters, but the honor of knocking the longest fly on the Detroit grounds goes to Jean Dubuc, Tiger finger. Dubuc is the only man who put the ball over the scoreboard and into the bleachers at the Detroit park.

The next big battle on the coast will be between Johnny Dundee, who recently held Featherweight Champion Kilbane to a draw, and Ad Wolgast, ex-champion lightweight. It will occur June 12. Joe Rivers, who saw the offer of a match with Willie Ritchie for July 4, has asked promoter Tom McCarey to call off an agreement made for him for his appearance on that date in order to take a better offer from the Frisco club.

When Champion Johnny Kilbane first went to New York he got $5,500 for boxing Frankie Burns. His last contest brought him $1,000. Now he is getting $2,000 for boxing Jimmy Fox at Oakland, Cal., when he should be drawing $5,000 for boxing Wolgast.

PALMYRA WINS GAME IN LUCKY SEVENTH

Local High School Nine Met Unexpected Defeat in Saturday's Contest.

An unexpected defeat was given the Janesville high school baseball team when they were forced to take the short end of the score in Saturday's contest against Palmyra, high school at the latter's field, by a 5-0 score. Judging from Janesville's performances in the last three games the local high school team had no right to fear a defeat. A general all-around "blow up" caused the Janesville players to take the beating in the last game of the year, for the locals had their opponents by a one-run lead up to the seventh inning when "Andy" Connell slackened his speed and the Palmyra athletes latched several easy grounders which escaped the Janesville infielders. These aided by wild pegs let the home nine take a one run lead, which later proved too much for Janesville.

Connell pitched masterly ball throughout the game, striking out the opposing batters with ease until the "lucky" seventh when with one down the Palmyra nine started a rally that won them the victory. The entire Janesville team played far from their usual form and let chances to score go by in four innings. The locals started scoring in the second after they had found the opposing pitcher's "roundhouse out" for two hits and a sacrifice.

With the score three to two in their favor the Janesville nine made three successive errors in the seventh and with a clean single by Alpine with the bases thickly inhabited proved the downfall of the Janesville team. In their half of the eighth the Janesville team made a desperate effort to tie the score and safe hits by Hemming and Kennedy sent in the tying run. Bad baseball prevented the locals from clinching the game for one of the players failed to score on a long sacrifice fly.

Palmyra scored the needed run to become victor in the eighth by one hit, two sacrifices and an error which spelled defeat for the locals. In Janesville's last chance to win the game, Palmyra became infected with the "blow up" fever and hits and misplays put three Janesville men on the circuit. Harry Ryan, the next man up, slammed out a long drive that looked good for three bases and the game, but the center fielder done the "Cobb" stunt and ran over, and pulled it down. J. Stewart on third should have scored, but the fielder could not have thrown in time to catch him at the plate but Jimmy failed to take a chance and was left lunging the sack while Palmyra took three healthy swings at the ball, retiring the side.

For six innings, the high school team played the game in a manner that was creditable to them, and everything pointed toward a victory but their playing during the last two innings was the poorest that they have put up this year. Every one of the infielders fell down on plays that should have been easy outs.

The locals were also woefully weak at the bat considering the easy twirlers that opposed them. Janesville put men on bases nearly every inning and three times a player was left stranded at third.

Janesville will probably have a chance to gain revenge for their defeat on May 29th, when the citizens of Palmyra will hold an "old settlers' day" celebration. This means an average of five hundred for the high school of four games played and the high athletes are confident of handling the Palmyra nine, a trimming if they clash bats again.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL NINE WINS DECISIVE VICTORY
Defeated Team of St. Patrick's School Saturday Afternoon by Score of 29 to 8.

The Jefferson school nine defeated the St. Patrick's school team by a score of 29 to 8 Saturday afternoon, giving them second place in the inter-school league. T. J. Gogan played the star role for the Jefferson nine, hitting a "three bagger," and making other effective plays. Flannery also made a creditable showing. Ed Brown was the pitcher for the Jefferson school. The pitchers for St. Patrick's were Cassidy, Kolber and Foley. Jefferson school has three forfeits, those of the Adams, Garfield and Lincoln schools.

to date 91% more cars than in the same period a year ago. None of the other leading high-grade cars can show any such increase. Does not this show that the combination of a car with the features that the public wants, a car which represents the best value of any car of its class and with a good reputation, spells the maximum success, not only for that manufacturer but the maximum of satisfaction for the owner? We are planning an additional increase of 50% production. This will give us the opportunity of supplying a few desirable points which up to this time we have been unable to provide for.

CIRCUS DAYS.

The band begins to play.
 The elephant now goes round.
 The little boy by the monkey cage had better keep away.

There is no child too young and few persons too old, to thrill at the thoughts of a circus. There is a fascination about the white-topped city that arrives in the early dawn, whose walls rise like magic, and yet to off and away in the still hours of the night to some other community. The staid Christian Science Monitor of Boston even feels the call of the sawdust arena and talks about circus coming again in the following manner:

"Up and down and all the way across the country, the annual admission to the American people to practise self-restraint by patiently awaiting the coming of the big show is beginning to appear in twelve-inch letters. The caravans are out of their winter quarters, the elephant is once more in the hands of his best friend, the small boy, what the ring-master likes to call the main pavilion is rising on vacant and convenient ground surrounded by the satellites, the side shows, soon the season of 1913, will be in full swing, the procession will pass again through all the principal streets of all the available communities, in the land, the knights and ladies will again ride their richly caparisoned steeds, the animals from the wilds of Africa and the jungles of India will once more fill the thoroughfares with strange noise, that even the music of the ragtime band in the city of Charleston cannot drown, and before the procession enters the tent for the grand ensemble the amphitheater will be thronged.

The town has been turning out in this manner on circus day for generations, and with no apparent diminution of interest in everything appertaining to the gorgeous spectacle and attractive entertainment referred to by the posters. It knows long in advance of the coming of the circus just what it is going to see and just what it is going to hear, but that does not in the least detract from its enjoyment, either in anticipation or participation. There will be the same ironing table performance on the bare-back horses, the same paper hoops, the same tumbledrop, the same tumbling, barrel-rolling, juggling, the same crack of the kangaroo whip, the same antics of the clown, the jokes, their ancestors heard. But these are things that never grow old.

Students of human nature have tried for years, and in vain, to discover why men, women and children never tire of going to the circus. A million theories, perhaps, if all were counted, have been advanced in explanation of it, but none of them has been satisfactory. They are even less satisfactory than the excuses grown people offer for being at the circus. The latter, of course, all resolve themselves into the pretense of going to please the children. As to the children, they offer no excuse, and their happiness while the show is on is their complete justification. What is the attraction? Nobody knows, but the general belief is that it is the sawdust. This is supported by the fact that from time immemorial sawdust has been identified with the circus. A circus without sawdust is not conceivable. Take the sawdust away from the circus and it is no longer a circus, even though it may be ever so rich in staples.

"It is useless to speculate about it. All that is really settled is that the circus has a hold on the people that nothing seems to be able to loosen."

ANENT STATE FAIR.

Thursday of the present week, in Madison, the claims of Janesville to the location for the Wisconsin state fair, will be discussed by a committee of Janesville boosters before the legislative committee. That this city has a fighting chance for the location if the fair is moved from Milwaukee is conceded by all. That a goodly number of the legislators feel that the fair should be moved from Milwaukee is also conceded, consequently the present agitation. From Fond du Lac comes the following statement from Charles E. Hill, one of the most noted Guernsey cattle breeders in the country, president of the American Guernsey Cattle Club, former president of the Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture, that manages the state fair, and present member of the board, that it was absolutely necessary to take the state fair away from Milwaukee to have it become a success. Coming from such authority it looks as though the fight against Milwaukee as the state fair site has really taken shape of some definite action, hence it is up to Janesville to redouble its efforts to impress the legislative committee that this is the only city in the state where the fair can be made a financial success.

There are two vacancies on the police force at present and one in the fire department. It is to be hoped they will be filled by capable men and not candidates whose fitness for the office is merely a personal preference.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Julia Baumann, widow of two years, Mrs. Julia Baumann, widow of the late A. W. Baumann, passed away last evening at six o'clock at her home, 910 Mineral Point avenue. Mrs. Baumann was born in Germany, February 23, 1847, coming to this country when a mere child. Four children are left to mourn the loss of a devoted mother: two sons, W. J. and A. W. Baumann, and two daughters, Mrs. R. E. Horne and Mrs. C. A. Schindler, all residing here but Mrs. Horne, who resides at Evansville, Wis., also ten grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house, Rev. Fuchs of the St. John's Lutheran church officiating.

Mrs. Henry Hubbard, mother of Mrs. Henry Hubbard, died at the home of Mrs. Matheson on St. Lawrence avenue early Sunday morning. Mrs. Hubbard had been in poor health for a long time. She was confined to her bed for two or three weeks immediately preceding her death. It was supposed that she was getting better, but a sudden failure of the heart to perform its normal functions brought the end. The funeral will be held at Elkhorn, Wisconsin, on Tuesday afternoon. At the home in Janesville at ten o'clock in the morning there will be a short service for the members of the family only. The funeral party will then go to the station and proceed to Elkhorn by rail, where they expect to arrive between one and two o'clock.

Mrs. Thomas A. Leahy, Requiem high mass for Mrs. Thomas A. Leahy was celebrated at St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock this morning by the Rev. Dean E. E. Reilly, who also preached a brief funeral sermon. The pall bearers were George Devins, Herman Gauke, Thomas Burns, Isaac Connors, Charles Manning, and Joseph Connors. The funeral was largely attended and the floral offerings profuse. The interment was made in a private car at 10:40 o'clock this morning over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. Those who went to the cemetery were Thomas A. Leahy, the widow, and as E. Leahy, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKernan, Miss Lillian McKernan, Mrs. Florence Bern, Mr. and Mrs. E. Leahy, Bert Schlatter, Mrs. Charles M. Schlatter, Mrs. Schlatter and the Misses George, and the Mesdames George Devins, Herman Gauke, James York, Michael McCue, Lewis Lowmyer, Henry Brazier, Amos Rehberg, Harry Garbutt, and E. Burns.

A Washington preacher says young men calling upon young women Sunday evening should be led to church. They will be eventually do so.

It ought to be a consolation to the man with a layn to know that if dangerous were not so common they would be raised in greenhouses and sold for $5 per half dozen.

GUARANTEE FUND MAY SOLVE THE PROBLEM

Directors of Commercial Club Discuss Plans—Other Business Matters Discussed.

The noon-day weekly meeting of the directors of the Commercial club occurred at the Myers hotel today. President James S. Fifeid presiding. A letter was read by Secretary Lane from the Dayton Chamber of Commerce regarding the Ohio flood district and cautioning the public against these events—asking that the Dayton organization be communicated with on any suggestions and to have come from a Dayton concern. At proposition from a Milwaukee manufacturer was submitted, he would have his plant with 33 men if $25,000 stock could be subscribed. He L. McNamara stated that the United Commercial Travelers desired to make some improvements in the auditorium in order that it might be ready for use during their joint convention and meeting of directors and committee is scheduled for this afternoon.

Allen P. Lovejoy presented the result of his investigation of the Boston Guarantee Fund, an arrangement by which the commercial organizations are able to have at ready command a line of credit to be used when necessary for manufacturers. Mr. Lovejoy's explanation of the plan was interesting and it similar arrangement can be worked out for Janesville the commercial organization and accomplish much in the way of locating new industries. A committee was named to investigate the plan further and submit to the banks the proposition to see if it would meet with their approval. The committee follows: Gibbons, A. P. Lovejoy, Amos Reiberg.

ENTERTAINERS IN HONOR OF MISS MARY CLUSKEY

Mrs. B. H. Smith, formerly of this city, entertained at her home in Joliet, Ill., Thursday evening last, for Miss Mary Cluskey of Janesville, who is soon to be married. ## BELOIT MOOSE LODGE GETS INTO TRIM TO MEET LOCALS

Defeat Stoughton by 9 to 3 Score in Game Sunday. Visit Local Lodge. Members of the Beloit Moose lodge baseball team defeated the Stoughton nine at Stoughton yesterday. The Beloit team is in good shape to meet the Janesville Moose team at the joint meeting of the two lodges which will be held in several weeks. The Beloit team made the trip to Stoughton by auto and stopped over in Janesville for an hour. They were entertained at a reception at the Moose club rooms.

Chop Suey $25 a Dish

High cost of living is not worrying the Chinese. One big Chicago restaurant run on the Hong-Kong style has on its menu a dish that costs $25. "Foony wong wu yin" is what they call it, and one portion is enough for five hungry suffragettes or six ordinary men. It has to be ordered twenty-four hours before you get it.

Candy at Aternove Tea. The Conard's serve broken bits of butter-scented candy along with the afternoon tea aboard ship.

SOX AGAIN DEFEAT HARMONY BALL TEAM

Britt on Mound For Locals Pitches Great Ball While Team Mates Give Creditable Support.

Stellar pitching by "Jerr" Britt, who allowed only two scratch singles and good fielding proved the downfall of Manager Brogey and his Harmony nine in the Sunday's contest with the White Sox at the driving park. The score was four to one.

The White Sox were never in danger and should have scored a shut-out. Britt, the diminutive twirler for the Sox, had the visitors at his mercy at all stages of the game, having his usual steady control and brilliant support behind him. While the Sox infielders made several errors, it was evident that a Harmoner played better support he would have had. The visitors showed a weakness at the bat, striking out when hits would have put more figures in the run column.

Harmony presented nearly an entire new lineup in the game, Manager Brogey enlisting some strong local players in hopes of taking the Sox's measure. "Matty" Ryan was the star pitcher for the visitors and pitched a creditable game. If he had been given better support he would have had a good chance of winning his game. The visitors showed a weakness at the bat, striking out when hits would have put more figures in the run column.

Two errors, coupled with a hit, started the scoring for the Sox in the 2nd inning and from then until the seventh both teams made short work of the batters. In the seventh the Sox hit the ball hard and filled the bases. Cronin was able to hit for a single, scoring two men and he registered on a steal home. After this spasm Ryan pitched a tight ball.

Harmony scored their only run in the eighth on a close decision at the plate.

Summary: White Sox: French, c; Britt, p; Stokely, 1b; Dalton and Connell, 2b; McGinley, 3b; McKelue, Fineran and Cronin, fielders.

Harmony: McCue and Fleming, c; Ryan, p; Mulligan, ss; Fleming and Ryan, 1b; Johnson, 2b; Butters, 3b; Brummond, Weller and Porter, fielders.

Game of Many Runs. In a baseball game played at Dunn's place on Saturday afternoon, the first ward nine defeated the third ward team by the score of 9 to 7. The game was exciting as some long drives were made off each pitcher. Brown, Lee and Blodgett composed the battery for the losers, while Bidwell and Crony made up the first ward battery. The game ended after six innings of play, through an agreement by both sides.

The Jefferson school youngsters defeated the future eagle stars from the fourth ward in a baseball game Saturday afternoon by the score of 21 to 19. The match took place in the rear of the Court House park and was the last test at all times. Williams and Sprackler were the battery for the Jefferson school team, while Denning and Kenning composed the fourth ward battery. A large crowd of school children witnessed the struggle.

The Saturday baseball nine won their first victory Sunday afternoon, at Dunn's pasture against the Janesville Cubs by a 7 to 3 score. Steve Schuler was again the mauler for the victors and held his opponents with a low score for six innings. Spawna twirled for the Cubs and was hit hard and often by the Saturday sluggers. During the first five innings the victorious team had matters their own way but a slugfest in the sixth put the Cubs even. Heavy hitting in the ninth scored the necessary run for the Saturday nine.

Peculiar Form of Tobacco Using. Hookah, the bubble bubble or Turkish water pipe, is always being smoked by Burmese women, partly because they like it, but mainly to supply the men with nicotine water. This bubble bubble nicotine water habit is, in fact, a lazy form of tobacco chewing. A mouthful of the beverage is held in the mouth as long as possible. They carry about gourds full of it, and claim it preserves their teeth, and it may.—New York Press.

When it is Better. The way some people when there's anything to be gained, remind one of Sterne's "Tant pis" and "Tant mieux" is amusing.

A QUAIN OLD-FASHIONED HOUSE---NO. 177. SIZE 37x35 FEET.

FIRST FLOOR

SECOND FLOOR

A good example of a simple colonial design carried out in a quaint and pleasing manner. The idea of simplicity and quaintness has been maintained in the extra wide shingles used upon the exterior and the division in the window sash, also by the exceedingly large and simple outside chimney. The roof is in green shingles.

The floor plan is carried out in the center hall type, but a library has been located at the rear of the hall under the main stair landing and the second floor is reached by combination stairs from the hall and from the pantry. The grade landing to the cellar is arranged off the kitchen at the rear. A porch is provided at the rear of the living room, and an entrance stoop shows only on the front. The second floor has three bedrooms with bath over the vestibule and a sleeping porch off of the rear bedroom. Basement under entire house.

The house is finished throughout with oak floors, hardwood finish in the main rooms and hall and whitewood finish for enameling in all of the bedrooms and bath. The kitchen and pantry are finished in Georgia pine.

With hot water heat, best grade plumbing and excellent material and workmanship throughout, this design can be built for from $4500 to $5500.

A Matter of Importance
It is VERY important that the water lines leading to the house and to the faucets be of ample size to deliver a good steady pressure. THE NEW GAS LIGHT COMPANY guarantees the Ruud Automatic Water Heater will heat four gallons of water per minute. Have your Plumber guarantee that the piping is large enough to deliver this amount to the farthest water outlet in the house.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A FEMINE INCONSISTENCY.

THE WAY in which a certain class of women invite trouble and then tend to be surprised when it comes is half amusing and half irritating.

I refer to the woman who, by her manner and her clothes, invites men to try to pick her up and then talks about the boldness of the other sex because they accept her invitation.

A rather pretty young girl occupied the seat opposite me in a Pullman the other day. She wore a striking hat, an ultra-low-cut blouse, an ultra-tight and short skirt, showing four inches of ankle encased in semi-visible silk stockings.

Her visa-vis was a very nice looking young man. By her pronounced clothes she won his attention; by her manner she kept it. When she saw he was looking at her, she raised her eyes slowly until they met his, then dropped them quickly. She did this two or three times. Naturally the young man was interested and showed a readiness to be on friendly terms. Owing to the fact that he had to leave the train at the next stop, the acquaintance did not ripen beyond these glances.

Perhaps it would not have anyway. I don't know. But listen to the sequel. The seat vacated by the young man was given to a young woman with whom the first girl promptly struck up an acquaintanceship. They chatted in tones so audible that could not be blamed for eavesdropping. The talk turned to the male sex and the danger of traveling alone for women. Whereupon the first young woman promptly told the second how a very nice looking young man had tried to pick her up that afternoon.

"That shows you can't trust even the nicest looking men," said the second girl, as she listened to the tale of the first. "It really isn't safe for a woman to travel alone, men are so presumptuous."

I think that little incident is typical of the way in which women attract the attention of the opposite sex and then pretend to deplore that attention. In reality they don't deplore it at all. The woman who is always complaining about men who speak to her on the street would be disappointed if they didn't. The average man is always ready to make the acquaintance of a passable looking woman, but he doesn't usually make advances unless he has some reason to think they will be acceptable. And even if he does take the first step, he seldom takes the second if he meets with a rebuff.

It is perfectly simple for a woman to rebuff a man's tentative advances, if she wants to. Frequently she seems to prefer to accept them, and then blame the man. The extravagantly beautiful woman may be pestered with unwelcome attentions which she simply cannot discourage, but the ordinary woman won't suffer any such inconvenience if she does not dress loudly, keeps her eyes at home, refuses any tentative advances and shows plainly by her manner that she wants to be let alone.

Six Hours A Day for Life!

This, at hard labor in a kitchen almost as hot and unhealthy as a boiler room, is the sentence which the woman who uses a coal range is working off.

"No Coal, No Ashes and Short Hours"

This, in a cool kitchen with more satisfactory cooking results and hot water when you want it, is the new order of things enjoyed by the woman who has an All-Gas Kitchen.

with the water in which they were soaked and cook until tender. When cool remove the stones and cut in lengths, pieces and soften in a little hot water. Blanch the almonds and cut in pieces, add the wine, sugar and gelatin dissolved in some of the prune juice. Mix all these ingredients carefully together.

There should be three cups of material. If not add a little orange juice or hot water. Turn into a mold with an open center. Set on ice for an hour or two to harden. Turn out on a flat dish and pile whipped cream in the center and place by spoonfuls around the jelly. Garnish with cooked whole prunes with seeds removed and filled with a blanched almond.

This may be molded perfectly plain and served with cream. Fresh orange peel cooked may be used in place of the candied.

Sunday Night Supper.
Ham Casserole
Cabbage Salad
Bread and Butter
Strawberries Coffee

This supper has very little preparation at the last minute as all the material is well prepared as given in recipes beforehand.

Ham Casserole.
Smoked ham, two thick, thick one slice; canned tomatoes, two cups; fresh sliced ones, four; sweet green pepper, one; bay leaf, one; small sliced onion, one; whole cloves, six. Slice and cut ham near the center of the ham, trim the edges and lay in the casserole. Over this pour or slice the tomatoes, then add the chopped pepper, sliced onion, bay leaf and cloves. Cover and set into a hot moderate oven on an asbestos mat and bake one and one-half hours.

Serve from the dish in which it is cooked or by using a pancake turner remove the meat without breaking to a heated platter, pouring the chicken, strained sauce around it. This particular dish is much easier served in this manner. Garnish with watercress or parsley.

Casseroles are covered baking dishes and are almost essential for meats, poultry and game that require long slow cooking. Use them also for ragouts of all kinds, stews, the cheap cuts of meat, baking fruits and puddings which take long slow cooking. They are great economizers in time and material and the food is far superior in flavor.

FRESH VEGETABLES.

During the early summer vegetables are the much relished food; meats have their place, but the vegetables, with their mineral salts, are needed in the body to restore the blood and purify it.

Bermuda Onions. Peel uniform sized onions and boil for half an hour in water to cover. Drain, rinse in cold water, remove the centers, which may be preserved to serve the following day in a white sauce. Season finely chopped cooked veal with a bit of green pepper, mix with buttered bread crumbs and stuff the onion cases. Set the onion in a buttered baking dish and pour around a cup or two of veal broth, with a tablespoonful of butter and a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet. Bake and cook three-quarters of an hour.

Cauliflower. which has been cooked until tender, separated into flowerets, then dipped in a fritter, batter and fried are delicious served with a meat course.

Mushrooms. The delicious field mushrooms are now in the market or may be gathered by one who has the knowledge of the edible varieties. In gathering mushrooms a "little knowledge is a dangerous thing," so one should be sure before going ahead. The fresh mushroom is especially delicious broiled. Peel the caps and then put a bit of butter in each, season with salt and serve piping hot.

Mushrooms are also most appetizing cooked in a little butter and then a thin sauce of cream added.

Swiss Chard. This delicate and succulent vegetable green is not well enough known. It belongs to the green family and is most delicious when cooked until tender in boiling water, drained and seasoned with butter, pepper and salt. The addition of a little lemon juice or vinegar is an improvement.

New beets are cooked until tender then chopped and seasoned with butter, pepper and salt and a touch of lemon juice.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

If cloths, when new, are plunged into boiling water for a few moments there will be less danger of their splitting when used.

Always scrubbing brushes away with the bristle side down. If you lay the wooden side down the water left in the brush will soak into the wood and loosen the bristles.

To Enamel—Set your can of enamel in a dish of hot water just before using; you will find it works very easily and smoothly. The trick is to have the enamel warm when applying it.

The Table.
Hickory Nut Cookies—One cup butter, two cups sugar, one egg, one half cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, two cups flour, and one cup nut meats. Roll out and sprinkle with sugar before baking.

Candied Orange Peel. Cut the rind into quarters, dip into long strips, put in a pan. Cover with cold water, bring to a boil and drain. This should remove the bitter taste.

To the peel of six oranges allow a cup and a half of granulated sugar and a cupful of water. Put these in a granite saucepan and bring quickly to a hard boil. Add the orange peel and boil down quickly, taking care the sugar does not scorch. When the liquid is almost cooked away remove the sauce from the stove, stir in a cupful of dry sugar, keep stirring until the peel is almost cold, pick it apart with a fork and the fingers, and lay on a plate to dry.

Beef Loaf. Take two pounds chopped beef, add a small piece of suet and small onions chopped, one tablespoon flour, and one pint tomatoes. Mix all together well and form into loaf, leaving out juice of tomatoes to pour over top. Season with pepper and salt and add a touch of red pepper. Bake or steam.

Sardine Sandwiches. Cut brown bread in circles, spread with butter and heat in the oven. Pound sardines to a paste, add an equal amount of finely chopped hard-boiled eggs, season with lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Spread on the circles. Garnish each canape in the center with a circle of hard-boiled white of egg, capped with a teaspoonful of hard-boiled yolk.

Lemon-Raisin Pie. One egg, one cup sugar, one cup raisins, one teaspoon cornstarch, dissolved in cold water and fill cup with hot water, one (grate) and add chop lemon and raisins together. Bake with top crust.

MRS. ASTOR JILTS COUNT FETSTETICS?

Mrs. Astor Jilts.

Count George Festetics, a chamberlain of the Austro-Hungarian embassy in London, is reported to have recently proposed to Mrs. Astor Jilts, the first wife of the late Col. John Jacob Astor. According to the same report, Mrs. Astor Jilts, the young man, who is only about thirty. She is forty-eight.

Whether the count proposed or not, it is known that he is very much attached to the American woman, who is now in London. The Festetics family is an old and distinguished one in the Hungarian nobility.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

In my mail the other morning was a letter signed "A Gazette Reader." She wanted my opinion on sending children to church or "did I think it necessary to start them while young? Would it be better to wait and let them decide when grown what church they wanted to join?"

Reluctantly I answer this letter: on that a fear I may say too much from my point of view, and to be broad-minded and keep in mind that as one circles a pole they get a different view from each side is the brand of charity a brand that I desire to have and put into practice every day of my life.

"A wise person will never argue on religion or politics," will not be a religion to tell my friend—"A Gazette Reader"—what she should do, though she asks me to. I will only say what I would do. There are so many different ways of raising children which are tried, and nowadays that I am not surprised when this mother tells me she is perplexed.

I am strongly in favor of a child being sent to church regularly every Sunday that the week-end may lay for their children's interest. Children like to go to church, they turn eagerly to all religion, especially where it is presented to them in a simple way that their childish minds can grasp.

We sent our children to school every day to prepare them to take their place in the world; but so many of us don't think a religious foundation is the foundation on which all education should be laid.

If we should speak freely on the subject we could all probably say there have been times in our lives when, had it not been for the silent forces of religion, we would have run our life boat on the rocks that line the course of our life's sea.

I cannot imagine how a parent, father or mother that is really working for their children's interest can think of raising them without any religion at all. That is not helping the child to help itself. It is a parent's duty to send their children to church just as regularly as to school, the education of the mind and heart should go together.

Many mothers will say, "I don't send my children to church. I teach them at home. I would have thought that mother if she said, 'I don't send my children to school, I teach them at home'."

The average mother will candidly say for her children's time to teach them at home. I have heard of a mother who sends them to school. She has confidence in the school system and knows the results are good. The teachers are trained to instruct her children. Every mother who sends her children to school is a mother who may be most desirable. Just as truthfully we can say every mother knows the results are good. The teachers are trained to instruct her children. Every mother who sends her children to school is a mother who may be most desirable.

Why not give your children the benefit of this training? It is business to go to our different churches here in Janesville on many occasions, and frankly speaking, the pastors are far more patient than I'd be at the attendance of a child.

Another point. Instead of sending the children to church, why not take them? What the parent is today, the child is tomorrow. Why not set a good example? If you can work six days in the week for this world, why can't you devote a couple of hours on Sunday to taking your children to church to hear the word of God, who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not. For of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

MAILMEN WILL WARN RANGERS OF FIRES

Postoffice Department Issues Orders
Enlisting Rural Carriers in Fight on Forest Fires.

The official Postal Guide for May calls the attention of postmasters and rural carriers to an order of the postoffice department that the carriers report to the proper authorities all forest fires detected along their routes. This order was issued at the request of the Secretary of Agriculture. For several years in some sections of the country a sort of informal understanding has existed between National Forest rangers and mail carriers with the idea of securing increased fire protection. The marked effectiveness of this cooperation was a strong argument in favor of its extension and official sanction, and was in part responsible for the request of the Secretary of Agriculture which resulted in the order by the postoffice department.

The plan is for the carrier to report a fire to the nearest forest officer on his route, or if no officer lives on the route, to have him notified by some responsible citizen. State and national foresters are supplied with post road maps and with postal guides containing the addresses of the nearest postmasters. The postmasters in turn are supplied by the foresters with the names, addresses, and telephone call numbers of forest officers residing on or near the carriers' routes.

Cooperation between rural carriers and federal forest officers will take place in Florida, Arkansas, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California. Cooperation with state officers is given in all the New England States and in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California, all these states having established fire protective systems.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

LAWN TENNIS.

By Howard L. Rann.

LAWN tennis is a spraddling variety of action which people take as a substitute for working in the garden. It is played on an oblong piece of ground called a court, which is covered with green grass, white chalk lines and wildly waving arms and legs.

Tennis is an English game and was imported here in order to stimulate the red and white seersucker and the duck pant.

It attained popularity for it enabled a great many people who couldn't tell a racket from a flatiron to hang around the flannel trousers and will more time than an indisposed section hand.

Tennis is the only game thus far discovered in which love is counted as nothing. The more love a tennis player gets into his system the worse he feels. This is hard to understand in these days of promiscuous park spooning, but it is a solemn fact. The tennis devotee gets as far away from love as he can, and tries to bang all of that commonly possible around the neck of his adversary. We don't know of any other pursuit in which love is so unpopular, unless it is in the divorce game.

In playing tennis the object is to drive a small rubber ball across the net and cause it to land where nobody is present. In the process of service the player rears up on his tiptoes, twists one side of his face entirely around, and then the ball is sent flying into the stomach of some tall grass, where it has to be hunted down by a soyle.

Physicians recommend lawn tennis to people who are long on leisure time and short on blisters. It is said it brings more muscles of the human body into play at the same time than any other form of exercise except being run over by a motorcycle. After a man has played tennis for a few weeks he will become as supple as a garden hose and can stand anything but work.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

LABOR.

So far as my observation goes, few men work themselves to death.

They may worry themselves to death or dissipate while working and so burn the candle at both ends, but good, hard, honest work is a tonic rather than a health destroyer.

Don't be afraid of doing too much. If you get the work habit the exertion will not exhaust you. It is the men who work by fits and starts that are worn out by the unaccustomed effort rather than those who keep plugging at it all the time.

The only thing is to keep up your interest, buoyancy and spirit. If your work ever becomes drudgery, then it will wear you out, but not otherwise.

Moreover, we become capable to do by doing. Man has an almost limitless capacity to adjust himself to whatever task is before him.

We must economize in work as in all other things, make no false motions and conserve our nerve force. There is a secret about efficiency, and happy is he who finds it.

A man can invent new, and better ways of doing things, just as he can invent a machine. There are more labor saving devices than are made out of wood and steel.

It is all right to talk about short cuts to success. Even short cuts require labor—labor of the brain.

I have heard of a few indolent great men, but never of one who was great because of his indolence. Moreover, I have suspected that even those men who are seemingly averse to outward effort keep up a prodigious thinking.

Did it ever occur to you that work, will and win begin with the same letter? The same is true of laziness, loafing and loser.

The highway of achievement is paved with labor. It is the only way to keep out of the mud.

Assays and the Geological Survey.

Attention is called by the United States geological survey at Washington to the fact that it does not make analyses of assays of ores, minerals or metals for private parties. Many specimens and samples are received by the survey, accompanied by requests for such treatment, with which it is impossible to comply. The force of chemists employed in the survey is small, and their time is fully occupied by their regular official duties. The geological survey has no facilities for making gold and silver assays. The most that can be done is for the survey geologists to give an offhand opinion based on a simple examination of the specimen. If an assay is desired the proper course is to employ a private assayer or to send the specimen to one of the government assay offices, where a regular charge is made for such work. When specimens are sent to the survey for examination applicants should be particular to state whether they wish them returned, as otherwise they will be destroyed.

LIMA

Lima, May 24.—Mrs. Mingley was up from Whitewater on Wednesday and attended the Circle at the home of I. L. Reese.

The town board met on Monday. Miss Esther Schwemer is assisting Mrs. Will Dixon with her household.

Levi Herrington returned to his home in Richland Center on Thursday after having spent some time with his daughter, Miss Allie Gould.

Rev. Freymyer gave a memorial address at the U. B. church on Sunday morning.

M. Knowles was in Sioux City, Iowa, last week to attend the burial of his aunt, Mrs. Lucy Knowles, who died in California a short time ago.

Miss Gladys Kibbie of North Lima spent Thursday and Friday with her sister, Mrs. A. McMillin, and wrote on diploma examinations.

A crematorium is one of Lima's most needed persons at the present writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson Alrich drove to Janesville on Saturday returning Sunday evening.

Mrs. Amos Gould spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Hall in Whitewater.

Mr. Alfred Uihlein
Schlitz Brewing Co.
Milwaukee, Wis.

Dear Sir:
Answering your favor of recent date in regard to the influence of light on the quality of beer, will say that our observations, extending over the last twenty-five years, have convinced us beyond a doubt that exposure of beer to light has a very detrimental influence on its quality generally, but especially upon the flavor of the beer.

We have tested beers repeatedly in this direction placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed.

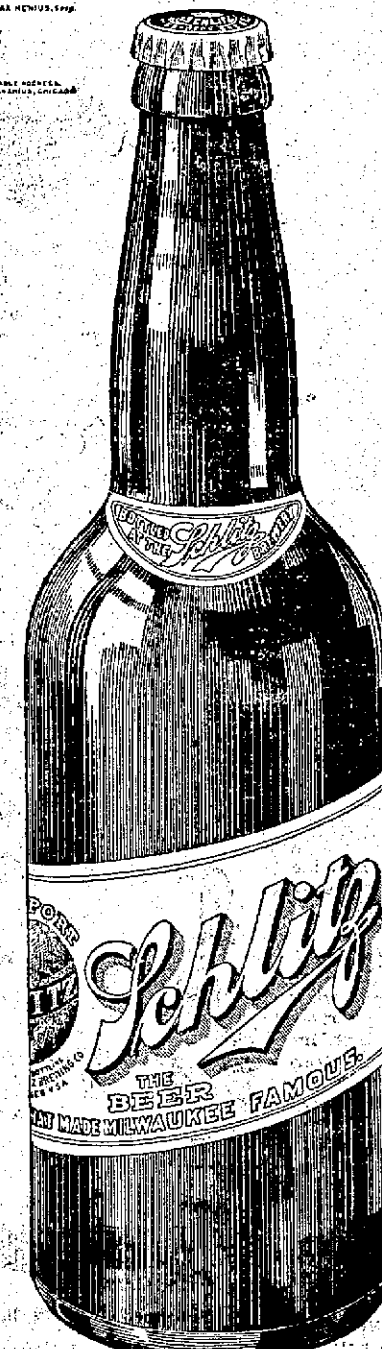

The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are therefore recommendable.

Yours very truly,

RW/B

Wash-Henius Institute

Extract from letter to Mr. Alfred Uihlein, written by Robert Wash, President of the Wash-Henius Institute of Fermentology, Inc., Chicago.

"Beer bottles should be manufactured from reddish-brown glass, inasmuch as same will to a much higher degree than any other kind of glass, minimize the influence of the rays of light on the quality of beer, and will protect the latter against acquiring the disagreeable taste (Sonnengeschmack) due to the chemical action of the light."

"In white and green glass bottles the beer is most affected by the action of the light. Such bottles are, therefore, absolutely inappropriate and should never be employed by brewers." (Signed) Prof. Dr. F. Schönfeld.

From the Illustrated Brewery Encyclopedia, p. 99 (Universities Press of Leipzig). Published by Dr. Max Delbrück, Privy Councillor, Professor at the Royal Agricultural College and Director of the Institute for Fermentology at Berlin. Berlin 1910.

"Bottles of strong glass should be selected. They should never be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid." (Linter.)

"The beer in the white glass bottle had taken on disagreeable odor and taste and was absolutely undrinkable. The beer in the dark bottles did not show this peculiar odor and taste." (G. Beck.)

Translation of Extract from Zeitschrift für das Gesamte Brauwesen, 1884—page 370.

"It is interesting to note the observation that beer in colorless bottles exposed to diffused light will undergo a change, precipitating a heavy sediment and taking on a disagreeable odor and taste."

Extract from Die Praxis und Theorie der Malzbereitung, Bierbrauerei, published by Director Julius E. Thoma, Leipzig 1897. Fourth Edition, page 920.

"It is a known fact that sunlight and daylight influence unfavorably the taste and flavor of the beer and care must be exercised in the selection of the bottles."

It's no use loafing in the summer, unless you know just where you'll end up. When winter comes, which is aummer, ships in some specialties in sleep.

There better far to work like others, endure the backache and the yoke, the toil that gets the heat thick smothering, than face the winter season.

NO USE broke. There is no bread on earth that's sweeter than bread that's earned by sweating men.

And happiness pervades the enter, who knows he owes no man a yen. No use to talk of big achievements you contemplate in days to come; they all will end in dark bereavements, your schemes will all be out of plumb.

No man who does things advises his plans ahead for many moons; he gets to work and draws the prizes, and lets the talker take the prunes. To get to work—that is the motto each man should put in his banner paste, if he would own his yacht or auto, and have a cash belt round his waist. It is no use to wait on others to do what you should do alone; just glance around at men and brothers, how they grope and troubles of their own. Be active, brave and self reliant, and show all men the sky beneath that you're no weakling, but a giant, with crimson whiskers on your teeth.

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

By HARRY KING TOOTLE

Illustrations by RAY WALTERS

It was only three days before election when Senator McIntire visited Belmont. He went to the Hotel Belmont and took a suite of rooms, but did not register. After talking to David Kerr over the telephone, he ordered an early luncheon for two served in his private parlor. Kerr arrived before the table was spread and immediately began to explain the situation. All through the meal the two men talked, McIntire questioning and Kerr explaining.

Practical politics was the business of Senator James McIntire just as it was of Mr. David Kerr. Jim McIntire liked to pose before the public and to make flamboyant speeches. Kerr preferred to sit in his dingy real estate office and pull the strings that made the puppets dance. To him speech making and posing were like the tinsel on a drum major's uniform. He cared only for power, it was immaterial to him how gaudy glory was apportioned.

"It looks like he's got you in bad, Dave," said the senator. "I don't see how I can help you this trip."

Kerr slowly set down his glass of water and straightened up in his chair, for he knew that the deal was now under way. He had played fair with Jim McIntire and told him just the exact situation.

"Lots of things can happen, Jim. I've decided to get his paper, but I need votes. It's too close to election. You ain't going to let him play you for a sucker. We've got to clean him, or he'll turn on you just as he has on me."

"I guess I ought to wait till he goes," was the cautious response. "I've got enough troubles without going out and lassoing a young grizzly bear."

"He ain't got no party," urged Kerr, "and you know how it happens in these towns where such a paper gets a start. He's got these fools in Belmont believing he's George Washington come to life again."

"I'm sorry for you, Dave, but honestly I don't see where I can help out any. It would give me too black an eye, because the boys here have set their hearts on winning this time."

Kerr saw that McIntire was forcing his hand, and he decided to approach the situation from another side.

"The next legislature 'll elect your successor," he suggested.

"I'm going to be my own successor," asserted the senator.

"It's going to be a hot fight," continued Kerr, unimpressed by McIntire's remark. "The state will swing back to our party, but nobody knows how the legislature 'll be on joint ballot."

"It's going to be for me if I can have anything to say about it."

"Well, you don't seem to be going about it very actively," retorted Kerr with the nearest approach to sarcasm he permitted himself during the interview. "Even if the legislature is controlled by your party, you've got a fight on your hands. There's Congressman Jenkinson and old man Graham down in Washington County. He's almost as strong as you are, and his part of the state ain't had no recognition for a long time."

McIntire did not answer at once. He got up from the table and walked to the window. When at last he turned to Kerr the question had been gone over thoroughly in his mind.

"Well, Dave," he asked with a smile, "what's the answer?"

"You've got to knife your ticket, so's these fool reformers can't carry Belmont."

"What'd I get out of it?" drawled out the senator.

"Seven votes in the house and two in the senate."

Again the apostle of practical politics sat back and took stock of the situation. Belmont was nothing to him. It mattered nothing at all to him how the town went as far as city affairs were concerned. Nine votes were not to be despised. He was cautious, however, and wanted particulars.

"How you going to deliver?" he asked.

"We've got that many to run this fall and I'll let the opposition have it their own way. Name your men now if you want to."

"That many's bound to make the legislature ours on joint ballot."

Kerr knew this, but he was quite willing to change the political complexion of the legislature of a great state, perhaps hamper the governor in wise and necessary legislation and keep the state from having a senator of its own choice, all to hold Belmont for his own. McIntire was no less willing to change victory into defeat and hand the city over to the rapacity of the Interurban Railway Company, only to retain his senatorial office.

"All right," he consented, "but you've got to do two things: take care of some of the boys and muzzle the News. I can't have that paper making trouble for me."

"I'll take care of the boys all right, and I've told you what I'm going to do—I'm going to buy the News."

"Can you?"

"I've got to have it, and I don't care how, but it's got to be mine."

"Got any idea?" asked the senator.

"No, but every man's got his price, Jim, in some form or other." If he had time for reflection, David Kerr would have enjoyed this remark, since it was given a humorous turn by the fact that he had just discovered the price of the junior senator from his own state.

"I'll go up to the postoffice and call on some of the boys," said McIntire as Kerr rose to go. "I'll have to tell Davidson and Peake. When you get word to them that the News is friendly, they'll pass the word along. You've got three days; that ought to be plenty of time, but you must have the paper or the deal's off. Who'll take it?"

"I don't know yet who we'll get to take it."

"I'll take it."

"Not much," Kerr replied grimly. "I'm going to put it where it won't be no more trouble to me, and it's going to be run from my office."

CHAPTER X.

When Gloria Kerr returned from St. Louis she found half a hundred calling cards awaiting her. The women she was anxious to meet had called while she was out of town. Those who delayed their visits until her return were people whom she readily recognized as being quite on the outer fringe of society. In them she was not interested. When Gloria went to return the calls of those whom she had come to know were regarded as the first families of Belmont, she found no one at home.

Somewhat mortified, but making no confession of her feelings even to Mrs. Gilbert, Gloria threw herself into the work of remodeling Locust Lawn with all the vigor she would otherwise have expended upon social duties. Her active superintendence kept her a good part of the time in the country, although she still made her home with Mrs. Gilbert. Sometimes she would pass the night at Locust Lawn out of a sense of duty to her father. The evenings spent in his company were not ones of unalloyed pleasure. More and more she was coming to acknowledge to herself that her father did not, could not enter into her life, into the activities which gave her pleasure.

Kerr honestly tried, but it was impossible. For one thing, he was engaged in a heated political campaign, fighting to retain supremacy. Gloria, on her side, saw that she had been rebuffed socially, and was not on close enough terms of intimacy with her father to tell him about it. The girl knew that he had been the social leader in Belmont, and she was ashamed that she had not been able to win all hearts as he had done.

Gloria's admiration of her father's powers did not lessen upon their better acquaintance. Strange as it may seem, her loyalty to him was strengthened by each turn of fortune's wheel which thrust her back upon herself. The frivolous veneer in her nature was being worn away, and the real Gloria was beginning to appear. Kerr's was indeed a powerful personality, and Gloria was coming to see why he was so successful. A woman's intuition and not an understanding of the facts in the case was the girl's tutor. She hugged to her heart the comparison of Joe Wright and her father. In the younger man she saw some of the traits which made her father a power—magnetism, reserve strength, and a logical mind. Wright had that and more: he had all the social graces. To her, however, his greatest appeal was that he was youth, eternal youth, and love.

What Gloria could not understand was why Wright was avoiding her. In her ears she could hear him whisper as he had that night:

Spring on the hills, Beloved,
On the side of a meadowed slope;
And Love in our hearts, Beloved,
Love, and Spring and Hope.

Now was spring here, and hope and the promise of love, but he did not come. After her return from St. Louis she had waited in vain. Then she had asked to have him invited to dinner. When Mrs. Gilbert telephoned him he refused owing to press of business, but asked to speak to Gloria. She came to the telephone and they had a pleasant chat. He told her that he was busy finishing some magazine articles which the editor was pressing him for, and that he was working night and day. For the time being Gloria accepted this explanation. The day of their telephone conversation there came from him a box of red roses at the dinner hour.

It must not be thought that Gloria was entirely cut off from society. It was the society she craved, the intimate association with certain ones, which she was not finding. To all the formal functions Gloria was invited, but she no longer cared for big balls as formerly. Her dances were all taken, but there was something in the atmosphere which dampened her spirits. Although every one was superficially pleasant, there was no cordiality in it at all. So she busied herself more and more with remodeling her country home.

One day at Locust Lawn a man engaged in digging the foundation for the new porch touched his hat and called Mrs. Hayes by name. She stopped to talk to him and betrayed a knowledge of his family affairs which astonished Gloria. After they had passed, the girl questioned her about the workman and how she came to know him.

"His wife came to the mission for help last winter when he was sick," Mrs. Hayes explained.

Gloria looked at the man in the trench, bending his back in pain that she might have a place to serve tea in the afternoon and lol in a swinging seat in the moonlight. He was but a unit out of those teeming millions of units to whose existence she had always been indifferent. Had she been told in other days that this man's family had almost died of want she would have let it stay in her mind no longer than the news that a hundred poor girls had been burned to death in a fire trap a bribed factory inspector had branded as safe. In other words, she would not have considered the matter at all. To have dominion over palm and pine to Gloria meant only that from these lands should be gathered the best there was for the lords of the earth. And of that order she knew herself to be one.

She and suffering were familiar to her in the abstract, sudden wretches she had seen invade even Fifth avenue, but that back of all were stories of weaknesses, misfortunes, oppression, inhuman exploitation, and man's inhumanity to man she had not considered. She believed they were born into their caste just as she was born into hers.

Now as she listened to this workman talk, heard his story from Mrs. Hayes, learned that he had little children dependent upon him just as she had been dependent upon her father before he had made a settlement upon her, making her independent, Gloria began to realize that there was such a thing as the fellowship of man. She was not uncharitable. Whenever any appeal had been made to her, she had always emptied her pocketbook thoughtlessly and considered her duty done. Now the thought of personal service came to her. She was ignorant of what she could do, even of its power to bring her any measure of happiness, but it was worth trying.

They had driven in silence almost to town before Gloria turned to Mrs. Hayes and said:

"Mrs. Hayes, the next time you go to the mission I want you to take me." Several days later Gloria went with Mrs. Hayes to view at close range the work being done in the poorer quarters of Belmont by the Presbyterian Mission. She met Mrs. Wallace, the matron, and from her learned the story of the humble but unfortunate toilers, and the evils to which they were constantly a prey through their ignorance and inability to protect themselves. Gloria then accompanied her on a round of visits, and soon the girl's interest was such that on the days Mrs. Hayes went to the mission she was glad to go with her.

The boss was disturbed at his daughter's trip into the lowest quarters of Belmont.

"This ain't no kind o' play, girl," he complained. "Why don't you stick to society?"

"Society!" she replied with fine scorn. "Why doesn't society stick to me?"

DINNER STORIES

A commission in lunacy had called a woman to the witness stand. "And now," said the commission's counsel, "to her, what is your ground for claiming that the accused is insane?" The woman gulped, wiped her eyes, and answered: "Well, gentlemen, he took me to the theater twice in one week. Each time we went in a taxi-cab, we had supper each time after the performance, and each time he bought me chocolates and flowers. He didn't go out to see a man between acts either." "But, madam," said the commissioner, "surely these actions do not prove insanity on the accused's part." "But you forget, sir," said the lady with a sad smile, "you forget that the accused is my husband."

The attorney for the plaintiff was heckling a witness for the defense who had proved a hard nut to crack. At length he began losing his temper, and tried to discredit him.

"Look here, my man," he said, "I believe I've seen you in court before."

CURED TERRIBLE HUMOR ON FACE

Could Not Go off Street Without Veil. Tells What Resinol Did for Her.

Philadelphia, Dec. 6, 1912.—"In December, 1908, my face became sore. I tried everything 'that was recommended and my face got worse instead of better. I spent over $100 and got no benefit. The face, and nose were very red and the eruption had the appearance of small boils, which itched me terribly. I cannot tell you how terrible my face looked—all I can say is, it was dreadful, and I suffered beyond description."

"I have not gone on the street any time since 1908 without a veil, until now. Just four months ago a friend persuaded me to give Resinol a trial. I have used three cakes of Resinol Soap and less than a jar of Resinol Ointment, and my face is perfectly free from any eruption, and my skin is as clear and clean as any child's. It is about four weeks since the last simple disappeared." (Signed—Mrs. M. J. Bateman, 4256 Viola St.)

Practically every druggist sells Resinol Ointment (50c and $1.00) and Resinol Soap (25c) but if you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, ulcers, boils, stubborn sores or piles, it will cost you nothing to try these soothing, healing preparations. Just send to Dept. 26-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for a free sample of each.

Your face is very familiar to me. I'm sure I've seen you before under most unfavorable circumstances, haven't I? Speak up, now, and tell the truth!" "I guess you're right, sir," she wisely replied, a pleased smile lighting

INFLUENCE OF WOMEN

The influence of women, glorious in the possession of perfect physical health, upon men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured—but what about the ailing, nervous, depressed woman who is a damper to all joyousness in the home and a drag upon her husband? Every such woman should remember that the one great American remedy for woman's ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and give it a trial at once, and thus put herself in the way of restoring that perfect physical health which is hers by birthright.

Could Have Rented Fifty Houses

A few days ago a man advertised a small house in the first Ward for rent, using a Gazette Classified Advertisement. Before supper he had a number of telephone inquiries, before bed time he had over twenty and in the next few days over fifty. There was nothing extraordinary about the house either; just a small seven-room house at $12.50 per month.

There are many houses in Janesville that are vacant that have all the improvements necessary to attract desirable tenants. People generally do not know they are vacant.

There is but one way to tell Janesville people what you have to rent or to sell and that through The Gazette. 2700 families out of 3100 homes makes results almost certain.
